Advice for civil servants

The Government Park and Playground Keepers' Union yesterday urged civil servants to put forward their views on post-1997 Hongkong.

The secretary-general of the union, Mr Wong Hon-sum, said civil servants should grasp the opportunity to say what rights they want protected.

He noted that both the Chinese and Hongkong governments had welcomed civil servants expressing their views on 1997.

Mr Wong believes the Sino-British agreement will help allay civil servant's worries and boost morale.

The union earlier sent its views on the draft 1997 agreement and the basic law to the head of China's Hongkong and Macau Office, Mr Ji Pengfei.

Mr Wong and members of the Hongkong Federation of Civil Service Unions leave for Peking on Saturday to discuss the Hongkong question with Chinese leaders.
