$10m police station

Work on the $10 million Tuen Mun divisional police station is expected to be completed in October.

The superstructure is almost ready and work on internal and external finishes is being carried out now, a Public Works Department spokesman said yesterday.

The station will comprise an 18-storey composite block, a single-storey services building and a compound.

Situated at the corner of Pui To Road and Tin Hau Road, it occupies an area of about 4,650 sq metres.

The composite block will house normal police operational administrative offices, barracks, canteens and recreational rooms and married quarters for inspectors.

The single-storey building will accommodate kennels, stores, carparks and services facilities.
