

[A healthy sign] 24-21 about porno

IT is a healthy sign at last pornography is being cleared away from the newspapers stands in the streets; but would it last long or not before these publications will flood the streets again?

One theory to the support of selling of pornography is that the desire for sex would be sublimated by reading pornography thus lessening sex crimes.

Another theory to the problem of sex is that the more reading of pornography and looking at nude girls pictures would increase the sex desire and thus promoting more sex offences.

Confucius said; "Eating and love-making are of human nature", the former is for the existence of the species and the latter is for the continuous existence of the species.

When we are hungry we cannot sublimate our need by just looking at pictures of food. The more we look at the food pictures, the more hungry we would be. We cannot satisfy a physical need without the real thing.

When we are hungry for sex, we cannot sublimate the desire merely by looking at nude girls pictures or pornography, but on the contrary it would increase much more our desire for sex. A physical need cannot be satisfied simply with pictures.

The ancient solution to the problem of sex was that let people get married at a young age. However, modern men want to show their superiority to their ancestors by getting married at a later ages. Thus people have to control their sex desire to the bursting limit.

It is not without reason in the Chinese thinking that "When boys and girls grow up, they should get marry".
